

Spring is here but these Crocus covered in snow don't agree.

Is everyone tired of this weather, or is it just me? The intermittent tease of a few warm and sunny days gets us pumped to break ground and get our planting underway. Then mother nature pulls the carpet out from under our feet and we find ourselves running back to our shelter for cover. It's becoming that same all too familiar springtime experience in Wisconsin. The transition from spring to summer yields many surprises. We're still moving ahead inch by inch and even though it seems like small steps there are signs of progress that another beautiful summer is approaching. No need to get worked up over a period of rain mixed with snow I tell myself. Don't get caught up in what you can't control. Take it day by day and everything will be ok. That's easy to say but we remind ourselves that spring eventually breaks into summer, and then we realize Wisconsin is a pretty great place to live after all.

Have you renewed your membership for 2019? CSA vegetable share are still available if your planning to re- turn. Payment options available. Click on "Sign me up for 2019" and you'll be redirected to our online sign-up page.

Note: For renewals click on the "returning member" link in the green box at the top of the web page.

Sign me up for 2019!

Transplant production is going well and on schedule. We've started planting in our greenhouses and we anticipate it won't be long before we can start planting outdoors. Day by day the activity intensifies but after a long winter break it feels good to be back doing something really important and that's growing healthy and wholesome food all of you. First delivery in 66 days. Take good care!

👉 Onion seedlings inside cold frames

👉 Lettuce transplanting

👉 Transplants inside our propagation greenhouse

"In the spring I have counted 136 different kinds of weather inside of 24 hours."

Mark Twain

We currently have honey, maple syrup and spinach available on our web store. *Only available for on-farm pick up. Click here to order <http://rareearthfarm.csasignup.com/store/maple->

